

Pluralsight Skills individual accounts and team plans

Tags: Skills

Within Pluralsight Skills, each user has an account that can be joined to a team plan. This can create different scenarios surrounding Terms of Use, Privacy Notice, and Data ownership.

For accounts that are only used for individual subscriptions, the account owner is the individual who owns the email registered under the account. The account owner accepts and is responsible to adhere to Pluralsight's Individual Terms of Use \(opens in new tab\) and Privacy Notice \(opens in new tab\).

Accounts that are joined to team plans accept their company's Terms of Use, Data Processing Agreement, and any other agreement their company has in place. This could include data retention policies that could delete accounts even after an account has been removed from the team plan. In the absence of any company policies, accounts must accept and are responsible to adhere to Pluralsight's Terms of Use \(opens in new tab\) and Privacy Notice \(opens in new tab\).

If you need help, please contact Pluralsight Support.