Subscriptions sold on A Cloud Guru may be subject to applicable transaction taxes such as VAT (Value Added Tax), GST (Goods & Services Tax), or other types of sales tax.

The rate applied to your order will be based on local, state and country jurisdiction of your billing address. It may also be based on other factors such as whether it is for business or consumer use.

Who pays the tax?

The customer purchasing the subscription will pay the applicable transaction tax based on various factors, including account details and billing address provided. A Cloud Guru will remit the tax collected to the appropriate jurisdiction.

Can I preview how much tax will be charged?

When checking out, an estimated tax calculated based on the address provided is displayed. When you are charged, an email is sent to your billing email address with a receipt listing the amount of tax charged.

When will the tax be charged?

The tax will be charged on the initial subscription billing after the trial period and on any renewals and upgrades thereafter. If you have already used the free trial on your account, you will automatically be charged at checkout.

Where can I find the total tax charged?

An email with the receipt will be sent to the email you provided at checkout. The tax amount charged is listed on this receipt. You can also find your receipts by visiting your Account Settings \(opens in new tab\).
